

Teacher Residency Sample Year One Schedule

This document provides details about Resident and Mentor roles in the classroom throughout the first year. Residents' adherence to this calendar is part of completing their courses and in completing the required 300 clinical practice/fieldwork hours before student teaching begins. Fieldwork Supervisors and Mentor Teachers may modify this document as needed if appropriate.

NOTE: Each week, Residents will need to document and describe their hours on the Teacher Resident Hours Log. Once Residents begin teaching, they should submit a calendar of content areas they will be lead/co-teaching to their Fieldwork Supervisor NO LATER THAN FRIDAY BY 5 PM FOR THE UPCOMING WEEK. This calendar will be sent to Fieldwork Supervisors based on the format determined by the Fieldwork Supervisor.

Lead Teaching in Year One

A general description of the lead role is as follows:

- When the Resident is lead teacher, she or he is primary executor of lessons and is responsible for submitting lesson plans to Mentor and Coach for all content areas.
- Mentor teacher is the lead on planning learning targets and assessment with input from Resident, using whatever strategy is best for students. This may include times when the Resident and Mentor Teacher share in lead for particular lessons (e.g., parallel teaching, team teaching). Resident will write detailed lesson plans based on the outline established by Mentor and will submit to Mentor in advance of Lead Teaching Week.
- Resident takes the lead on classroom management strategies. Mentor will support and provide feedback as needed.
- Resident is responsible for classroom administrative duties (attendance, discipline, etc.) and grading, with Mentor Teacher support.
- Resident takes on responsibility for connecting with parents (with support of Mentor Teacher)
- Resident participates in student support meetings (with counselors, special services, disciplinary team, etc.).
- A variety of co-teaching approaches should be applied, including but not exclusive to solo teaching
 - Solo teaching should be built in at times when the particular lesson(s) are supported by this approach;
 - Should solo teaching be applied, Mentor Teacher should continue to support class and be engaged observing, video-taping followed by review, or pulling out individual students or small groups.
